

WE NOMINATE

John J. Collins, Tristram B. Johnson, John F. McCarthy Jr., Ralph S. Mason, Joseph R. Nini, Miss C. Lawrence Norris, Charles J. Rocknak, Albert Salzman, Robert W. Sinkler, Theodore T. Tams Jr. and Hugh D. Wise Jr., the 11 candidates for local political office, who in next Tuesday's general election will pass in review before their fellow Princetonians. Representing both major political parties and varying degrees of political opinion, this group of volunteer office-seekers—one of whom measured the sacrifices of "politicking" against the possibilities of personal gain—personifies local government at its best by insisting that no part of the democratic process can ever be taken for granted.

With the exception of the 29-year old Nini, unopposed Republican candidate for a second three-year term as Township Clerk at an annual salary of $4,700, Princeton's 1954 political nominees, a half-dozen in the Township and four in the Borough, are this week concluding somewhat spasmodic campaigns in which the emphasis has been on personalized house-to-house contacts rather than on political rallies. For the first time in memory, following last Fall's unprecedented Democratic victory and with the expiration of the "Census Freeze" that jumped the membership of the Township Committee, from three to five, there is every likelihood that the Township's "battle of ballots" for three Committee posts will hold more public interest than the Borough's traditional struggle for two unsalaried councilmanic jobs.

In the latter municipality, Council President Johnson, 35-year old investment banker, and Rocknak, former Council President as well as a past president of the Exempt Firemen's Association, are meeting the challenges of two long-established Democrats: Collins, 61 years old, a Pennsylvania Railroad employee and travel agent, and Miss Norris, the first woman to seek a Borough elective office in some two decades, whose interests range from the Council of Community Services to the Princeton Historical Society. On the Township "side of the line," the lawyers have it two-to-one, for the Republicans have drafted two seasoned campaigners, Mason and Wise, and the Democrats have turned to two political neophytes in their mid-30's, McCarthy and Tams.

The senior Republican statesmen in the Township, Salzman, hard-working chairman of the Township Committee and a member of the Committee for the past 14 years, is paired with Mason for the two three-year terms—in opposition to McCarthy and Tams, who completed their legal training at the University of Pennsylvania and Rutgers respectively. For the two-year term, it is Wise, formerly an attorney for the Securities and Exchange Commission and an officer of a number of Princeton service organizations, versus Sinkler. The last-named, a 38-year old graduate of the Bordentown Military Institute and a part-time student at Rutgers for the past several years, is a member of the University's athletic staff and the first member of the Negro race ever to stand for election to the Township Committee.

For understanding that Democracy's strength lies in the active participation of citizens in all walks of life; for placing their desire to be of service to others above any personal interests; for believing in the things they believe in; they are TOWN TOPICS' nominees for Tracing a Trend. The degree to which the Democrats can make inroads on Republican strongholds at the municipal and state levels is the development that will be given closest attention in Tuesday's election. This is the picture not only in Princeton but in the New Jersey senatorial race and throughout the nation as well. Polls here will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The battle for the six-year post in the U.S. Senate, currently held by Republican Robert C. Hendrickson, has, oddly enough, created a greater interest on the part of political analysts throughout the country than it has among the average voter in New Jersey. The race between Congressman Charles R. Howell and Clifford P. Case, former G.O.P. Representative, has attracted wide attention because Mr. Case brought intraparty strife down on his head with what liberal members of his party felt was a sound repudiation of Wisconsin's Senator McCarthy.

Because New Jersey backed Eisenhower strongly in 1952, only to reverse its field last fall with the election of a Democratic governor, the outcome will be closely watched to determine how strong the trend is away from the

After approving a request from Democrats to post 28 signs prior to the election, the Republican-dominated Borough Council found itself with no similar GOP application on hand.

Quips about whether the Democratic posters should be considered "political or charitable" and amused hints of a possible special meeting the next day brought the solution from Democratic Councilman Raymond Male.

Mr. Male said he felt the Council could approve in advance a request similar to the Democrats', provided the pre-election signs were those of "any other major political party."

Republican administration. The state has not elected a Democratic senator since 1936.

For a summary of the principal aspects of the race, TOWN TOPICS presents the Republican cause by former governor Walter E. Edge and the Democratic viewpoint by Professor Richard A. Lester of the University's Department of Economics and Social Institutions. Their contributions to the "Why I Plan To Vote" series appear on page 17.

Another approach to the senatorial battle is presented on page 9. State-wide opinion is reported by the New Jersey Poll, whose final analysis of the race will be posted in Town Topics' office Monday morning. The figures may also be obtained by telephone.

Township to Expand. Developments John E. Curry and Harry also be forthcoming in Princeton Township, whose three-man governing body will be increased to five on January 1. Based on Tuesday's results, its personnel can vary from four Republicans and one Democrat to a Democratic majority of identical proportions.

In the Borough, too, Democrats are confronted with an opportunity to gain a majority—their first in nearly a quarter-century. Contrary to 1953, however, when both municipal off-street parking lots and consolidation were griddle-hot issues, this year's campaign has been extremely quiet, with electioneering following personality and party lines.

Town Topics presents a biographical run-down of the candidates and the offices they seek in its "Man of the Week" nomination. For further background information and party platforms, see the Democratic advertisement on page six and the Republican advertisements on pages 10 and 11.

At the county level, voters will choose among Democratic incumbents John E. Curry and Harry E. Lieberman and Republicans Andrew K. Dutch, Jr. and Theodore G. FitzGeorge for freeholder, as well as Democrat William J. Connor and Republican Jack Dinola for surrogate. Mr. Connor is the incumbent.

Mercer County voters will be asked to approve a retirement system for county employees similar to that now in effect for the state. They will join with voters throughout New Jersey in a referendum seeking to establish a $25,000,000 fund to build, equip and maintain a State medical-dental school. If the question is approved, the Legislature must appropriate revenues from the state cigaret tax, now being diverted for other uses, or must increase the rate of the tax.

man answering an alarm at 56 Princeton Avenue pulled a switch in the basement of the two-story frame house, shutting off the electricity. Since that stopped an electric clock in the bedroom of Mrs. Cross Bradberry, borough police and members of the county prosecutor's office were able to determine, nearly 24 hours later, how the fire started that tragically took the lives of her two small daughters.

Faulty electric wiring had tentatively been given as the cause for the blaze, from which dense smoke asphyxiated Martha Bradberry, 8, and her sister Susan, 5. However, the alarm had been sounded at 2:41; since the clock had stopped 14 minutes later, it was apparent that no short circuit had occurred to cause the fire, which had started in Mrs. Bradberry's bedroom.

Patrolmen James Kopliner and Frank Maguire, working under the direction of Sergeant Frank Bird with members of the county prosecutor's staff, issued a joint statement Friday: A burned out box of kitchen matches, not charred beyond recognition, was found in Mrs. Bradberry's bedroom. When she told police that they were never kept upstairs, that and knowledge that the wiring had not been at fault led to the decision that the two little girls had set fire to the bed in their mother's room and then gone into their own, closing the door behind them.

They were found by Patrolman Kopliner and Sergeant Thomas R. Murray and rushed to Princeton Hospital. Doctors and nurses worked for more than an hour to revive them but without success. The two policemen and Frederick Traegler of the Fire Department were also temporarily overcome by smoke and were treated at the hospital.

Mrs. Bradberry, daughter of Mrs. Eliot Cross of 172 Mercer Street, had kept a hairdressing appointment in the early afternoon. She returned home to find thick smoke on the second floor and telephoned in the alarm when she was unable immediately to locate her children.

Having started in the mattress, the fire was confined largely to the one bedroom, with little damage done to the exterior of the house. The girls' brother, 7-year old John, was at school when the fire broke out.

Cyclist Injured. Francis J. Snyder, 15, was seriously injured Monday when struck by an automobile while riding his bicycle on Nassau Street near Pine. He was taken to Princeton Hospital in the First Aid Unit ambulance, when he was reported to have suffered a brain concussion.

Cache-pots and Chintz. Decorators who like Mexican pottery often choose it because of its strong primitive colors. But the Mexican pots now being shown at The Princeton Decorating Shop, 32 Nassau, are notable for their subtlety, both in line and in color.

They are four nested clay pots—the largest one 12 inches across, the smallest about seven inches—shaped like flower pots and covered with a thin black slip that lets the putty-colored clay show through in places. A swan and some other branches have been painted over this gray-black slip in oyster white, and the result is considerably more sophisticated than what you'd expect from Mexican potters. The set is $18.

Modern fabrics in the shop are linens or heavy cottons. We liked, for this season, a natural linen with leaves in autumn colors. Another print, on the same lines, exhibits its leaves in conventionalized form; it's a pleasant pattern but hasn't quite the freedom of the first.

You'll look twice—blinking between looks—at a pattern that looks like stained glass. The colors are orange, deep purple and violet, and the forms are geometric, separated from each other by inch-wide black lines. The fish form that attracts so many modern designers appears on a grey blue cotton. In this fabric the carefully worked scales of the fish soften the outlines and heighten the texture.

Inexpensive chintzes ($2.95 and $3 a yard) are bold and gay. Day lilies on a green background, for example, would cheer up any window. There are blues in this chintz group, too, but you'll find the yellow patterns particularly appropriate to the character of the chintz.

We thought Toulouse-Lautrec had bowed out, but he appears again in a fabric concerned mostly with blues, greys and violets. Several of his posters, tattered by a wind, appear against an olive-green background.

An impressive piece of Venetian glass is here at The Princeton Decorating Shop. It's a ten-inch shallow bowl, heavy to the hand, but light in design. The glass is smoky, blown with rounded irregular edges, and containing in its center a curved fish with gold scales. The price is $50, and it's a masterpiece.

Champagne. Cocktail dresses at The French Shop (20 Nassau Street) remind us more of champagne than martini. Slipper satin has been used in some of these dresses, but it seems to have a less satiny finish than some we have seen, and all for the best in our opinion. One is ice blue with a very wide, deeply folded halter strap, princess cut, and a deeply folded bodice that follows the line of the halter.

A dress cut with petal top has very narrow Chinese straps. It is pale blue, too, but not quite an ice. A lively green peau de sole has short sleeves, pointed waist and square neck. In back the square neck is repeated an octave lower, with small green velvet bumps scaling down to a little bustle of a back skirt. This dress comes in black, too.

Full-length dresses in slipper satin are magnificently formal. Here is an ice-blue whose draped neckline is marked out with beads. The beads appear again on the shoulder straps. An ivory gown of slipper satin has a halter top and a few discreet crystals scattered about the neckline.

Evening bags to match these dresses are brocade, beaded or shot with silver thread. They have been made into pouches, snap purses, or clutch purses, and they are marked from $6 to about $25.

Daytime dresses in The French Shop are particularly attractive in junior sizes. Prim round collars top off princess dresses in royal purple or bright red. A sand-colored princess dress has a shawl collar that sets it off from the rest.

A copper silk, for late in the day, shows a low waistline marked with a narrow pleural. It has no sleeves and a plain, wide, "V" in the front. Black tafeta has been decorated with coral flowers and a black and coral cummerbund.

Kishka, Hurka and Wurst. A tour of the meat counter at The Food Mart, 20 Witherspoon, makes you realize what a cosmopolitan town we live in. Have you tried Hungarian or Polish blood sausage, the Kishka and Hurka known and savored by central—Continued on Page 20

Franklin Avenue. A charge of careless driving was made against the driver of the car, Vernon C. Harris of Trenton, who told police the boy had swung into his path from behind a parked vehicle.

Polio Strikes Late. A rapid incidence of cases this month brought an end to Princeton's polio-free year, but the disease is still at its lowest level here in almost a decade, according to David T. Blake, Borough health officer.

Nez Tillet, 18-month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tillet of 120 Prospect Avenue, was taken to Princeton Hospital with polio, but has been released for a recuperative stay at another hospital.

A Princeton University freshman and a Trenton woman have also been treated for polio. Two other persons were admitted to Princeton Hospital as possible polio cases. They were Mrs. Evelyn Ellerbe, 34, of 110 Witherston Street and Walter Aron, 33, 402-1/2 Devereux Street.

Kenneth Scassera, 16-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. B. B. Scassera, is in a Hartford, Conn., hospital to undergo treatment for polio. He was stricken at the Canterbury School, where he is a student.

Bus Service Debated. A request for permission to operate on a trial basis regular bus service to the Shopping Center ran into a small but unfriendly storm of opposition at an informal public hearing Monday called by Mayor Sturges and the Borough Council.

John Vandenberg and Leigh Harris II of Tiger Bus Lines outlined their plans and the routes involved, with John A. Archer of University Laundry representing the Shopping Center Merchants Association which he heads.

Mr. Vandenberg brought out the fact that the proposed bus service would be free for "one week or two only" and that plans called for the subsequent sale of ten-cent tickets in strips of five at the Shopping Center. He told the filled Council room that Tiger Bus Lines would not operate the bus service if it was clearly unwanted by local residents.

Thomas Peacock, general manager of Trenton Transit, said he felt the application may be legally improper in that chartered bus service with fixed fare and schedule constitutes a common carrier and would require a Public Utilities Commission franchise.

The chief opposition came, however, from Borough merchants and taxi drivers. The arguments were summarized by Uzal H. McCarter of 70 Alexander Street, who cited:

Existing traffic congestion and the fact that proposed routes went along many narrow streets; potential safety hazards, and economic factors such as loss of business to local taxis and that the buses would be taking thorough customers away from borough stores for the benefit of township business.

Having heard public opinion on the question, the Council is likely to take action on the application at its November 9 meeting. Meanwhile, it has been reported that petitions are being circulated in the Township urging the governing body there to reject the proposed bus service.

Commission. A resident of this community for the past quarter-century, he is recognized by his colleagues as one of the great original workers of this era in his field. His development of an electronic calculator has made it possible to solve problems a million times faster than a decade ago.

Dr. von Neumann worked on the first atomic bomb experiments and later was credited with playing an outstanding role in development of the hydrogen bomb, enabling the U.S. to add it to its weapons before Russia. Last summer, he was one of 26 Institute members who signed a statement backing the loyalty of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, its director, after the latter had been denied security clearance as an atomic energy consultant.

The appointment, bearing an annual salary of $18,000, is for a five-year period, with Senate ratification expected to follow. Dr. von Neumann has said that if appointed, he will request a leave of absence from his duties at the Institute.

Liquor Violations. The license of the Community Wine and Liquor Store was suspended for 10 days by action of the Mayor and Council Monday night on a complaint of selling to minors.

The store through its attorney, Louis Gerber, entered a plea of non vult and received an allowance of five days. The suspension will start November 8. Mr. Gerber in his statement pointed to the recurring problem of misrepresentation of age and the need for action against minors attempting to obtain alcoholic beverages.

A hearing on an alleged similar violation involving Cousins Co. will be held at the regular Council meeting on November 9.

Legion Seeks Members. Princeton Post No. 76, American Legion, has launched a two-week membership drive designed to increase its ability to serve the community. It partakes in such programs as child welfare, Americanism, rehabilitation, community service and national security.

The Legion's work, which this week received the endorsement of Mayor Sturges, requires greater manpower from the Princeton area, the Post has announced.

Hallowe'en Warning

Acting Police Chief John H. Smith has announced that special precautions will be taken this weekend to prevent Hallowe'en vandalism and property damage.

Extra foot and car patrols will be on duty throughout the community, Chief Smith said. The policy, inaugurated two or three years ago, has been credited with a marked decrease in the type of prank that goes beyond a harmless "trick."

with the membership drive to continue until November 11. Veterans of both world wars and the Korean campaign may obtain full details at the post rooms, 55 Mercer Street.

Prince Chevrolet. A change in ownership of the Princeton Chevrolet dealership was announced this week as the 1955 models arrived. The dealership at 354-362 Nassau Street will now be known as Prince Chevrolet.

Stuart R. Gerber has sold the franchise to Carl M. Konover and Thomas J. Foody, both residents of Trenton. Mr. Konover, who was brought up in Penns Neck, has been associated with Reese Buick and Hurdler Motors in Trenton and has been in the automobile field since World War II. Mr. Foody was formerly associated with Alexander Motors and has had 14 years' experience in the field.

No changes in personnel are planned by the new company. Mr. Gerber is planning to go to Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, to enter the real estate business.

Court Action. Five Princeton residents were given hearings on charges of disorderly conduct Tuesday before Magistrate Paul R. Chesebro. Jail sentences of 30 and 90 days, respectively, were given to Bertha McGowan, 246 John Street, and her father, George McGowan, for fighting. While attempting to break up the row, Patrolman Peter J. McCrohan fell and required nine stitches at Princeton Hospital to close the cut in his head.

HOWELL MAINTAINS LEAD OF 55% OVER OPPONENT IN NEXT-TO-LAST SURVEY

In a survey completed Wednesday, October 20, Charles R. Howell, campaigning for U. S. Senator from New Jersey on the Democratic ticket, was running ahead of his Republican rival Clifford P. Case by a margin of 55%.

The survey included only registered voters who said they were going to vote on Election Day. They were asked:

"If the elections for U. S. Senator were being held today, how

More Predictions

The Princeton Research Service, headed by Kenneth Fink, is also polling nationally and in New York, with current findings indicating a Democratic Congressional victory and showing a considerable lead for Averell Harriman over Irving M. Ives in the New York gubernatorial contest.

The "United States Poll" as of October 20 found voter sentiment on Congressional races to be 53.5% Democratic and 46.5% Republican, while the "New York Poll" gave Harriman 54% and Ives 46% of the surveyed voters.

would you probably vote—for the Republican candidate Clifford P. Case or the Democratic candidate Charles R. Howell?"

The results:

Howell	52.0%
Case	46.5%
Other candidates	1.0%
Undecided	.5

Four weeks ago, 48% voted for Howell; 44.5% for Case, and 7.5% were undecided. In other words, Howell has registered a gain of 4% over the past four weeks; Case, a gain of 2%.

Answers to another question in the same survey showed that Democratic candidates for Congress across the state were leading GOP candidates by a margin of 5%.

"If the elections for Congress were being held today, which party would you like to see win in this state—the Republican or the Democratic?"

The results:

Democratic	52.5%
Republican	47.5

Poster Painting Contest. Pupils enrolled in five borough and township schools will take part in the Hallow'en poster painting contest this weekend under sponsorship of the Lions Club. Sheets of cardboard 22 x 28 inches will be sketched by the young artists and placed in store windows in town and at the Shopping center.

The new project replaces the window painting contests of recent years, since a number of merchants had expressed a preference not to have their entire window painted. The new plan will also make it possible for a greater number of participants to compete for the cash prizes. Edward Saldwin, Paul Alford and William Schneeweiss are in charge.

Talk on Handicapped Children. Dr. Boyd Nelson, director of special education in the state's Department of Education, will speak on "Services to Handicapped Children" at the first meeting of the Council of Community Services next Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the social room of the First Presbyterian Church. A new slate of officers will be elected.

A study of handicapped children conducted last year by a committee under the direction of Dr. Peter Putnam has resulted in a catalogue of services available to children suffering from mental or physical handicaps. Use of the book is open to doctors, ministers, social workers, public and private school authorities and parents. Parents or teachers concerned with problems of this nature will be particularly welcome at next week's meeting, the council has announced.

State of Speakers Announced. The Princeton Junior Chamber of Commerce has made public the schedule of speakers for its monthly dinner meetings during the coming year.

They are Dilman M. K. Smith, vice-president of Operation Research Corporation, November 4; Dr. Earl Ludiam, State Public Health Dental office, December 2; Fred Van Deventer of radio and television, January 6; Dr. Elmer Engstrom, vice-president of the Radio Corporation of America Laboratories, February 3.

Others who will speak in the near future are Representative Charles R. Howell, Republican Senator H. Alexander Smith and Dr. George H. Gallup. Dr. John R. Bode, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, opened the series earlier this month. The meetings are held the first Thursday of each month at the Nassau Tavern.

Rummage Sale Helpers. Names of those assisting in the Princeton Hospital Aid Committee rummage sale the week of November 8-11 at the Chambers Street Firehouse have been announced by Mrs. E. C. Rose, Jr., chairman of the sale.

They are Mrs. Maurice Mather and Mrs. Frank Eidmann, assistants to the chairman; Miss Margaret Mitchell, staffing; Miss Sarah Hodge, bookkeeper; Mrs. C. H. Davidson, treasurer; Mrs. Milton Brunl, publicity; Mrs. George Stoess, receiving; Mrs. Samuel Atkins, pick-up information.

RALPH S. MASON Pledges His Support To A Program Of Constructive Action For Princeton Township

1. FAIR TAXES FOR ALL—

Through the assessment of all property according to the same standard of values. Commercial property to pay taxes in full proportion to the services required.

2. PROTECTION OF PROPERTY VALUES—

By a long-range area zoning program to assure future protection of neighborhood standards.

3. ADEQUATE FINANCING OF OUR SCHOOLS WITHOUT EXCESSIVE TAXATION ON HOMES—

By preventing future congested housing developments which demand more in services than is received in taxes, and—

By encouraging desirable non-residential tax producers of a character in keeping with the Princeton Community to locate in the Township and help carry the tax load.

4. DECENT, SAFE AND SANITARY HOMES FOR ALL—

By the elimination of dilapidated buildings and the encouragement of private or public construction which will make decent housing available to all Township residents.

This is a twenty-year program—much of the preliminary work has been done—a blueprint of the plan can be inspected at the Township Hall—all phases of the program are subject to the approval of Township voters at public hearings.

For the fulfillment of this plan—and the preservation of Princeton Township—Vote for these Republican candidates.

News of the Churches

Protestants Mark Reformation. A Union Reformation Service has been planned by seven churches and religious groups in the Princeton area. The service will be held Sunday at 8 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church where Dr. John Oliver Nelson of the Yale Divinity School will speak.

The observance is being sponsored by the three Princeton Presbyterian Churches, the Methodist Church, the Baptist Church of Penn's Neck, the University's Westminster Foundation and Student Christian Association.

St. Paul's Campaign Opens. The memorial gifts committee of St. Paul's Church has announced the receipt of $253.32 in gifts in advance of the general solicitation of the parish. The money will go toward the construction and furnishing of a new St. Paul's designed to seat over 850 persons. Estimated cost of the project is $600,000.

The campaign's opening was officially marked on Sunday by 150 men volunteer workers who attended the 8 a.m. Mass and received Holy Communion. Father Edward C. Henry, Pastor, presided.

Final Missions Meeting. The Rev. Robert W. Smyres of Mathura, United Provinces, India, will be the final speaker at the Princeton Methodist School of Missions on Wednesday. The Rev. Mr. Smyres has just completed his first five-year term as missionary managing the Clancy High School in Mathura.

Why I Plan to Vote REPUBLICAN DEMOCRATIC

By WALTER E. EDGE

By RICHARD A. LESTER

The outstanding issue of this campaign is whether President Eisenhower is to be permitted to carry through his constructive program, so well begun, or is to be handicapped with an unfriendly Congress, its members more interested in installing a Democratic President in 1956 than in cooperating with their prospective rival.

In New Jersey it is Case, an avowed supporter of the President, versus Howell who promises many blessings but who will follow his party line when the whip cracks.

Mr. Howell who is an estimable gentleman has seemed to feature three or four issues in his appeal for votes—foreign relations, unemployment, the tax burden and corruption in public office. In all four he has criticized Republican policy or accomplishment.

Space will not permit a complete review of the great advance

I am voting for Charles R. Howell for U. S. Senator because the record shows that he has been a much better Congressman than his Republican opponent, because of the kind of campaign each of them has waged, and because control of the Senate by Democrats will be better for the country at this time than continued control of the Senate by Republicans.

During his six years in Congress, Charlie Howell has worked hard in the best interest of New Jersey and the country. He has consistently voted in favor of the reciprocal trade program, the United Nations, Point IV aid to underdeveloped countries, military preparedness, social security, improvement in unemployment benefits and minimum wages, fair employment practices (FEPC), and use of the proceeds from offshore oil for all the people.

His opponent, on the other hand, has a surprisingly inconsistent record, having voted on both sides of many of those same issues. For example, Case voted in 1945 and 1948 to hamper the reciprocal trade program by limiting its extension to one or two years; he voted in 1948 and 1949 to remove three-quarters of a million workers from Social Security coverage and a large number from minimum wage protection. In 1953, he voted to cut back the Air Force by $5 billion; and on offshore oil he first voted to give it to the oil-rich states and later voted the other way.

Howell has an excellent record of stability, attendance, and service to all his constituents. He makes a weekly report in the newspapers and frequently sends questionnaires to obtain constituents' views to guide his voting. He has also been independent-minded. He gave the Eisenhower program 62% support, compared with Case's 59%, yet Case now pledges to support Eisenhower 1,000%!

During 1953, Howell was recorded as voting on 93 percent of the roll call votes; Case had a poor attendance record of only 62 percent before he quit Congress in August, 1953, to take a most "challenging" job with the Ford Foundation, only to resign six months later to run again for Congress.

Upon his nomination for Senator, Howell proposed a code of campaign ethics which he has adhered to, waging the contest on the issues. Speakers that Case has brought into the State and Case himself have played the "numbers game"—emphasizing the dismissal of over 7,000 "security risks" but refusing to reveal whether up to 75% of them were—Continued on Page 18 being made in all four of these categories by the Eisenhower Administration.

First, as to Foreign Relations: I challenge anyone to point to a record of results equaling the 21 months of the Eisenhower Administration starting with peace in Korea and followed with one international agreement after another both in the Eastern and Western Hemispheres.

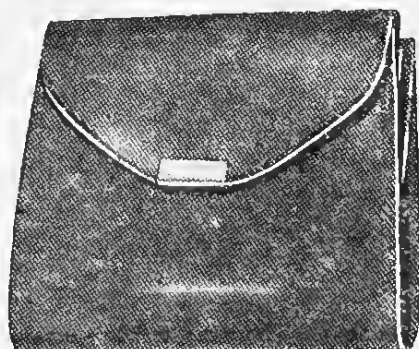

Second, on unemployment Mr. Howell has overplayed his hand. Undisputed statistics show that today 62 million people are at work and three million unemployed—a figure being daily reduced. Of course during war times (seven years of the Roosevelt-Truman dynasties) the percentage of those at work was higher—so was the daily published list of casualties on the battlefronts in rice fields and jungles.

But surely no one wants war as a cure for unemployment. In ten of the peace time years under Democratic policies there were more unemployed than today. During President Truman's last peacetime year, 1949, there was 3,800,000 out of work.

Third, the complete tax revision bill passed by the last Congress benefits every American large or small. Over seven billion dollars has been cut from the tax burden, an accomplishment made possible only because of big cuts in government spending.

UNIVERSITY CHAPEL

Dr. Carl Weinrich will give a recital of works by J. S. Bach this Sunday at 3:30 in the University Chapel to mark the inauguration of extensive additions to the organ completed during the past two years. The recital will be open to the public.

While the original Helena Woolworth McCann Memorial organ was considered an outstanding instrument when it was installed in 1928, there have been many changes in organ design since that time. Additional pipe-work has been installed by the Aeolian-Skinner Organ Company to make the Chapel organ more representative of present day organ-building.

Dr. Weinrich's program will include Bach's Concerto in A minor; the Toccata and Fugue in D minor; the Prelude and Fugue in A minor; the Canonic Variations on "Von Himmel Hoch," and several chorale-preludes.

MCCARTER THEATRE

An unusual program will be offered for the second program in Series Two of the University Concerts on Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in McCarter Theatre when Alexander Schneider, violinist, and Mieczyslaw Horszowski, pianist, perform. Tickets for the concert are available at the University Store and the box office the evening of the concert.

The program will include Beethoven's Sonata for Violin and Piano, Opus 30; Brahms's Violin and Piano Sonata, Opus 78; Mozart's Sonata for Violin and Piano, K. 526, and "Sonata da Camera," Opus 30, by Ben Weber.

Mr. Schneider, who began the study of the violin at the age of five, was at 19 the concertmaster of the symphony orchestra at Saarbrücken. In 1944 he founded the Albeneri Trio, which has played chamber music concerts all over this country. In the same year he founded, with Ralph Kirkpatrick, harpsichordist, the Sonata Ensemble, with which he still plays.

Mr. Horszowski has won wide acclaim as a soloist and as an accompanist. The two form a remarkable pair of artists playing together with unusual appreciation of the role each performs.

Recitalists. Town Hall in New York was the scene of recent concerts by Charles Rosen, who performed here many times as a graduate student at the University, and of Gloria Strassner, cellist, of 120 Prospect Street.

Mr. Rosen, who combined studies as a pianist with earning a Ph.D. in French literature, was making his fourth Town Hall appearance. During the summer he toured Germany and Austria with the 7th Army Symphony and gave solo recitals in Berlin, Stuttgart and Munich.

Miss Strassner, wife of Samuel P. Cunningham 3rd, who is with the Forrestal Research Laboratories here, made her New York debut with the Town Hall appearance. She has performed in solo recitals and with orchestras throughout the country. A graduate of Julliard, she was awarded a Fulbright Fellowship for study in Europe in 1951.

VOTE REPUBLICAN

Fourth, in raising the issue of corruption in government Mr. Howell is playing with boomerangs. No one questions the great tragedy of a Republican State Administration years ago but that is set forth in contrast to the exposure of recent scandals in various Federal bureaus such as Housing and Internal Revenue occurring under the recent National Democratic Administration. Perhaps our Democratic friends should dig out some new issues at this point.

I shall vote for Clifford P. Case for the United States Senate because of his great ability, personal integrity and avowed support of President Eisenhower and his policies which are bringing peace and prosperity to America.

VOTE DEMOCRATIC

Hired by the Eisenhower Administration as stated by John Cramer, the Washington Daily News' veteran reporter on Federal Government employment policies. Such campaign tactics discourage able people from entering government service, and help to explain why, as Vannevar Bush told a Congressional committee, scientists are getting disheartened to the detriment of our weapon's research programs.

Howell decried any "backstreet" tactics before dissident elements in Case's own party injected his sister's past connections into the campaign, and Howell vigorously defended Case's loyalty after Case had been using "internal subversion" and the "numbers game" for campaign purposes, without recognizing that people had been refused Federal employment or been forced out, after similar connections of family members were reported to the FBI.

Senate Republican leaders and committee chairmen have been reckless in the use of their positions, lowering this country's prestige abroad and wrecking programs like our international information and propaganda activities in the cold war (See businessman Martin Merson's report of Congressional destruction in the October 7th issue of "The Reporter" magazine.)

With a shift to Democratic control of the Senate, Knowland would be replaced by Johnson and such changes of committee chairmanships as the following would occur: Green for Jenner (Rules), Magnuson for Bricker (Interstate Commerce), George for Wiley (Foreign Affairs), McClelland for McCarthy (Investigations), Hayden for Bridges (Appropriations), and Murray for Butler (Interior).

A vote for Charlie Howell is a vote not only for the best candidate running for the office but also a vote for more responsible government and for more effective and respectable operation of the U. S. Senate.

THE BEST NUMBER to call for results in classified advertising is 2201. The best proof is the number of ads running in this issue. Call TOWN TOPICS or bring your ad to 4 Mercer St. by Tuesday afternoon.

News of the Theatres

MURRAY THEATRE

Tickets have gone on sale for the Theatre Intime production of Jean Paul Sartre's "The Victors," which will be performed by Theatre Intime from Thursday, November 11, through Saturday, November 20, in Murray Theatre on the University Campus.

Tickets may be obtained at the University Store (tel. 3333). The prices are $1 and $1.20, Mondays through Thursdays; $1.50 and $1.80, Fridays and Saturdays.

"The Victors" is a controversial play, having been the object of a burning at Copenhagen and a critical "I'm confused" when it played off-Broadway in its only previous American production (in 1948).

The play by the world's leading existentialist involves the problems of five leaders of French resistance to the Nazis when they are faced with the need to sacrifice themselves for their beliefs or else destroy all that they have accomplished.

BUCKS COUNTY PLAYHOUSE
Currently playing at the picturesque Bucks County Playhouse is "The Shoemaker's Children," another in the series of world premieres scheduled by Producer Michael Ellis this fall. The comedy by Ephraim and Henry Ephron continues through this Saturday evening.

Dorothy Siskney is starred in the play, which is about the widow and children of a famous political leader and alludes obviously to the late Franklin D. Roosevelt. "The Shoemaker's Children" is scheduled to open in New York on December 3.

Walter Abel will be seen in "Murder Without Crime" starting Monday at the Bucks Playhouse. The drama by J. Lee Thompson will continue through November 6 with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday at 2. "Murder Without Crime" tells the story of a young man who stabs his mistress when he learns that his wife is about to return to him. He hides the body in his living room and spends the remainder of the play trying to ward off cruel prying on the part of a friend.

Mr. Abel will be seen as the intensely curious friend, while Francis Bethencourt (who also directed) plays the part of the tortured young man. Francis Reid appears as the wife, while Diana Herbert (daughter of playwright F. Hugh Herbert), appears as the mistress.

COMMUNITY PLAYERS

Mario Siletti, one of the outstanding members of the University Players company this past summer, has been signed to direct "The Madwoman of Chailot" for the Community Players. The Jean Giraudoux work will be seen on the Murray Theatre stage November 29 through December 5.

FILM CLASSIC SERIES

The 18th season of film classics presented by Princeton Group Arts opens this Friday evening with showings of "Open City" at 7 and 9 in McCosh Hall 50 on the University Campus.

Ticket prices are lower than in the past because of the reduced entertainment tax law passed earlier this year. Available at the door, tickets will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. Full ticket and program details will be found in the advertisement on page 20.

"Open City" launched the so-called neo-realist period of Italian films and stands as one of its classics. The story of resistance during Nazi occupation stars Anna Magnani and Aldo Fabrizi. It was directed on the streets of Rome by Roberto Rossellini and uses local citizens for the most part.

Sellout

For the first time in local (recorded) theatre history, the McCarter was sold out for Tuesday and Wednesday performances this week.

The occasion was, of course, unusual, being the inaugural of the Ballet Theatre's 15th anniversary season. ETO was reported for both evenings.

A review of both programs by Milla Gibbons of the Aspari School of Dance, will appear in Town Topics next week.

story and produce captivating entertainment. Starting in the comedy-romance about a chauffeur's daughter are the wonderful Audrey Hepburn, Humphrey Bogart and William Holden. Continuing a week.

Genevieve (Nov. 3-6) chronicles a race of two ancient autos from London to Brighton with two amusing couples in charge. Charming example of good British cheer, manufactured from a slim story. The stars are John Gregson, Dinah Sheridan, Kenneth More and Kay Kendall.

THE GARDEN

Private Hell 36 (Oct. 29-30) explores in most routine fashion the theme, "crime doesn't pay." It's another in the recent flood of cop-gone-crooked-to-get-money-to-get-girl films. The principals are Steve Cochran, Ida Lupine, Howard Duff and Dean Jagger.

Mr. Hulot's Holiday (Nov. 1-5) is a real visual gag job, which ought to make a lot of people laugh because of a thoroughly casual, disorganized plot. Jacques Tati is fine as a pompous boob on a two-week vacation at the seashore. His misadventures (which earned the Grand Prix at the Cannes Festival) have the assistance of a number of other talented performers.

Secret of the Incas (Nov. 5-6) actually creates quite a problem for Nicole Maurey, an Iron Curtain refugee from the infamous MVD. Don't be fooled though this is a standard melodrama about hidden treasures in the Andes. The color film is good. Charlton Heston, Robert Young, Thomas Mitchell and the intriguing singer Inn Sumas are the leads.

European cooks? Or the fresh liver sausage that German housewives serve, not the standard liver-suet of delicatessen renown, but a fresh sausage that must be cooked to eat?

Take home the Polli's Kielbasa, a garlic salami made with pork, or any of the all-beef salamis. Jewish spiced beef is here, too, and so is the rolled beef of lean and tender beef plate.

While we watched, Mr. Levine counted 12 different kinds of Italian squashes, including the garlicky Calabrese, Sopressata and Cicciolina. How many tongues in this Babel? pickled tongue, smoked fish; beef, pork, lamb or veal. And kidneys, hearts, liver from all the beasts of the field. Sweetbreads, of course, and ox-tails, pig-tails, calf-tails.

From the hooks at the back of the counter hang smoked pig heads—ask a Puerto Rican cook what can be done with these delicacies. Bacon is smoked with its ribs, then sliced to your order. And all the game poultry of the season, naturally: squabs, guinea hens and the rest, cooked for you if you prefer.

To serve with some of the Italian meats, you might try the Cavatelli we found in the Food Mart's freezer. A kind of pasta (but one that must be refrigerated), the Cavatelli is made into inch-long boats that catch the meat sauce. For a somewhat more prosaic dish, try the White Rose canned rice pudding. You can chill it, or serve it warmed up with whipped cream on top. A can is 25c.

Cooks who take pride in a shining pan may achieve one by using Glo Pad. Made for copper, brass, chrome or silverware, the pad comes in a foil envelope like dehydrated soup. Use it, then tuck it back in the envelope and keep it airtight until the next time. A pad is 15c.

Jumpers . . . abound. If that's the word, on the racks at Bailey's, 14 Witherspoon. We were struck, first off, by an orange-red flannel jumper with high saucy waist. —Continued on Page 21—

(closely fitted with darts) and back zipper. Later on we discovered the same model in demure pink and a shy Oxford grey. You could wear this jumper as is for dress, or with a blouse for more serious pursuits.

Another jumper appears in red boucle with black thread in it that takes away some of the fire. It is washable, despite its somewhat fragile, loopy appearance. Still another is in Oxford brown and has a gathered skirt that gives it quite a different air from the usual princess line. A gold trimmed belt sets it off. This also comes in a dark tweedy red.

There's a jumper in charcoal that has its own jersey blouse. The jumper buttons down the front, the blouse (a pleasant shade of turquoise) has three-quarter sleeves and a small pointed collar.

If you feel that a jumper is not in your line, investigate a coat dress made of cotton, rayon and rabbit hair, woven into a tweedy looking fabric. Dress has a collarless neckline and three-quarter sleeves. Another business-like dress is black with snowflakes, a straight and narrow skirt, and a narrow white pique bow at the top of the neck.

Skirts at Bailey's are tweedy like the dresses. We saw one in gold, red and gray ($10.95) with unpressed pleats all around. Another is olive green felt, cut with a high princess waist; a third is turquoise felt with black soutache braid distributed around the skirt.

Wear with any of these skirts a sweater that's half vicara, half nylon, soft as down, in four colors including white, for $8.95. For $9.85, a Kara-lon in white has small gold outline butterflies embroidered on it. The wings are filled in with white rayon thread, and trims of small pearls mark the places between butterflies.

Ebony for Hallowe'en. Celebrants who want to observe the holiday to perfection might buy a pair of ebony beeswax candles at Stonewald's, 13 Palmer Square West. These candles are two for $1.25, with a rich polish that you can enhance with a quick rub on your sleeve. Beeswax burns longer than ordinary waxes, and the candles are good-sized to begin with. Small black and brass pitchers hold them nicely, and may also serve as little vases.

Pewter has been given a shine like silver and wrought into teapot, coffee pot, creamer, sugar, candy dish and bon-bon dish. A raffia wrapping makes the handles safe for your hand.

There's a decanter and ashtray in this store made of a pale smoky shade of violet glass that's called Twilight. Tiffin makes it. The decanter is plain and capacious, the ashtray either square or triangular. A clear crystal bowl is apparently designed for floating gardenias.

China from Denmark is more traditional in design than the products you usually associate with Scandinavia. The color is a blue-gray, the design a small flower. In the set are small ashtrays for $2, a leaf ashtray for $3.95, candlesticks for $10 a pair, a powder jar for $6.50, and a large circular plate—handsomest of the lot in our opinion—for $6.50.

Leather desk accessories, with particular appeal to a man, consist of such useful items as a letter "basket" with a handled top that holds papers in place; a lazy Susan divided into six sections for stamps, paper clips and the like; an index for telephone numbers—this one comes in metal made to look like wood, or leather if you prefer.

A square leather sheath holds brass letter opener and library shears. The sheath itself is ruled off in gold inches on one side and gives tables of fractions and decimals on another. It costs $6.95.

I-Cubes provide you with a portable Scrabble. For $2 you get six dice with letters on their sides. Throw them and see how fast you can make a word. Good time-passer for commuters.

Raymond Loewy has designed the Ansco-Flex camera ($15.95) and its leather case ($3.50). In sage gray, it's a compact pre-set camera with full-size direct view finder.

Barometers by Swift and Anderson will keep you posted on the next hurricane. These come in wooden cases ($12.50) or brass anchor cases ($15). You may also buy a triptych that gives you temperature, humidity and barometric pressure for $16.50.

We have left this to the last because anything else would be anticlimax: a box of cocktail napkins with reproductions of Van Gogh paintings on them in color. We prefer ours straight, thanks.

Why Cook for Week-end Guests

if you don't have to? We are now prepared to have your Turkey, Ham or Roast Beef cooked for you, for the very moderate charge of $2. Slightly more for stuffing. Come in and talk to us about this new and timely service.

Unprecedented Injuries. As nearly as can be recalled in the modern (post World War I) football era at Princeton, no series of injuries befell any team comparable to the loss in a single week of Royce Flippin, Dick Frye and Dick Martin. Supposing 1922's "Team of Destiny" had found itself without the services of Don Lourie, Johnny Gorman and Charlie Caldwell? How would the championship team of 1935 have finished the season if it suddenly lost Pepper Constable, Ken Sandhach and Gary LeVan?

The able but thinly-manned Princeton team of just before World War II could hardly have afforded the simultaneous loss of Dave Allerdice, Bobby Jackson and Boh Peters; and the last unbeaten Princeton contingent, deep as it was in the two-platoon era, would have had tough sledding if George Stevens, Dick Pivrotto and Dick Kazmaier had all been shelved by injuries. Flippin, Frye and Martin were as important to the 1954 outfit as any of the foregoing trios to the teams of their eras. If two of them (both tailbacks) are out for good, the obvious question is whether or not the Tigers can win another game this season.

It is probable that Frye will not play again. The ill-starred, highly likeable senior from Utica had a fine freshman year but could hardly have had greater misfortune during his varsity career. He suffered a shoulder separation as a sophomore, missed the last five games of the season and underwent an operation the next winter to enable him to continue playing football.

With Flippin coming along last fall to win the starting tailback assignment, Frye did not see a great deal of action. As his senior year began, however, he turned in increasingly good performances; Flippin's injury last week was a big blow to the team's chances but it was definitely softened by the fact that Frye was running and passing better than he ever had before.

Then, on the fourth play of the game against Cornell, Billy DeGraaf passed over the middle to Dick Jackson and Frye came up hard from the safety position to stop him. The jarring tackle dislocated Dick's shoulder and he is likely to be lost for the rest of the season and his football career at Princeton. It was the same shoulder that was operated on two years ago.

The earliest that Flippin is now expected back is for the Dartmouth game which ends the season on November 20. Thus it is quite unlikely that a faster recovery will permit his playing against Yale in the Bowl a week earlier. Jim Van Buren of Cornell broke two bones in his right wrist, an injury identical with Flippin's, on the second Saturday of September and played last week against Princeton for the first time. The interval was five weeks.

Martin, whose shoulder separation is less serious than Frye's, may be ready to play against Harvard a week from Saturday. He definitely will not see action this week against Colgate. The once-tied Red Raiders will be on hand for a 2 o'clock kickoff with a firm desire to preserve their unbeaten status and clear-cut ability to back it up.

Also probably out for the season is senior tackle Pete Milano, who has been out since the Columbia game with a torn ligament in his knee. Earl Byrne missed the last six games of the 1953 season after breaking his collarbone and a broken ankle cost Jack Newell the last five of the 1951 season, but again, no one can recall when several players have been lost for more than half the campaign.

Decisive Defeat. Cornell, on the way up, and Princeton, on the way down in visible fashion after Frye was hurt, passed each other in Palmer Stadium last week. The size of the score (27-0 for the Ithacans) was something of a surprise, as was the breaking of the 76-game scoring streak that Princeton had been working on ever since Penn last blanked the Tigers in November, 1945.

Until fairly well into the third period, Princeton was still pretty much in the ball game. Cornell scored toward the end of the first quarter when a two-foot quarterback sneak by Art Sosenko capped a 56-yard drive, but there were frequent occasions when it appeared that the home forces could draw even.

Seven fumbles and three pass interceptions killed off Princeton's chances, however, the losers never getting beyond the Cornell 18-yard line in the first half and not beyond the 37 in the second. Bob Russell ran well as a wingback converted to fullback, averaging 5.6 yards in ten carries, but Cornell had little trouble in stopping the Tiger ground game.

It was pared to 93 yards—sharp in contrast to the 308 which Cornell picked up during the afternoon. The Ithacans' figure was greater than the total they had been able to run for during their first four games this season.

A Cornell touchdown in the third quarter followed a Princeton fumble on fourth down, a tide-turning score that duplicated exactly a similar break for the opposition at Providence the week before. A call for pass interference made when the field judge seemed clearly out of position accounted for 14 yards of the 47 that the Ithacans covered in making their second TD.

SPORTS IN PRINCETON

The gates opened in the final period, two more touchdowns making something of a runaway of the game. One came from 15 yards out on a driving run by Dick Jackson, following recovery of a Princeton fumble; the other climaxed a 53-yard drive, Captain Guy Bedrossian plunging over on a one-yard buck.

Sid Pinch intercepted a pass behind the goal line in the dying minutes, and for a moment looked as if he might go 104 yards to preserve the Princeton scoring streak. However, end John Morris, one of Cornell's best players, outcaugh him at the Tiger 40, and the last two plays could not get the Orange and Black across mid-field.

The loss set the season's record at 3-2, with an even split in the Ivy League standings. Yale and Dartmouth, the only two undefeated entries, clash this weekend at New Haven.

A 165-lb. sophomore who was on the Jayvees until Flippin was hurt last week will see a fair amount of action against Colgate Saturday. He is Jan Brecknitz, who has been receiving plenty of attention during practice this week as he converted from the T which the reserves use to the varsity's single wing. Brecknitz played the final few minutes against 'Cornell and should be of value as he gains in experience. Understandably, he needs much of that.

The Tigers will also probably have a new signal caller for the next two or three games. With Flippin and Frye, who has been running the team, out of action, and Brecknitz slated to run from the tailback position fairly often, the coaching staff was considering the possibility of a switch when practice started this week. If Frank Cosentino and John Fahey are both available as

Princetonian on TV

While Princeton has no part in the NCAA television program this fall, one of its residents will be actively involved in Saturday's "game of the week." He is Irwin Weiss of 248 Moore Street, who will serve as umpire in the Pennsylvania - Penn State game starting at 2 o'clock at Franklin Field, Philadelphia.

Last week, Weiss was the umpire at New Haven when Yale played Colgate. Director of Physical Education at the borough elementary school, and for 25 years track coach at Princeton High, he is rated one of the top football officials in the east.

quarterbacks, the assignment may go to them.

Colgate Is Good. Colgate, here for the first time since 1950, when the unbeaten Tigers ran over it by a 45-1 count, has been a major surprise this year. The Red Raiders opened with a 19-14 conquest of Cornell and went on to trim Holy Cross, Rutgers and Dartmouth before deadlocking Yale in the Bowl last weekend. Unfortunately for the undermanned Princetonians, the visitors figure to be somewhat stronger than they were against the Blue. A 200-lb. fullback, Frank Nardulli, whose ability as a line-buster is considerable, is expected to be ready after having missed two games with a severe leg bruise.

A fast, versatile backfield operating behind a 190-lb. veteran line has been the key to Colgate's success. The visitors' forward wall, averaging 198, is composed entirely of juniors and seniors.

Captain Dick Lalla, a quarterback being mentioned for all-American honors, is adept at deception in the split T. He is a good-passer and runs very well on the option-pitch play, an offense that has been troublesome to the Tigers all season. Sophomore Guy Martin has made a particularly capable substitute for Lalla; other good backs who will run against the Tigers are Frank Speno, Charlie Garivaltis, John Williams and Ed Whitehair.

It has been 29 years since Colgate has beaten Princeton. The New Yorkers, powered by the great Eddie Tryon, topped a Princeton team in 1925 that went on to win the Big Three title.

As short of manpower in the backfield as they currently are, a situation that means almost more trouble with an inexperienced defensive secondary than it does on offense, the Tigers seem to be well over their heads this weekend. If they manage to make trouble for unbeaten Colgate, it will be a major accomplishment.

P.H.S. Drops First. Princeton High's football forces were knocked out of the undefeated ranks Saturday when Trenton Catholic —Continued on Page 24—

Imported Fabrics

TAILORED TO YOUR ORDER

There's nothing magic about the word "imported" . . . a trip across the sea does not add anything to the fabric.

But what is "magic" is the skill of foreign weavers, bred to the looms and following the trade of their fathers, grandfathers and great-grandfathers.

They produce wonderful woollens—but never in any great quantity. That's why the best of the imports are available only in custom tailored clothes. Come in and let us show you those "unusual patterns" that everyone admires so much.

The wide spread in our price ranges enables us to clothe the budget buyer and also those whom only the finest quality and workmanship will satisfy.

came from behind with a last-minute touchdown and extra point to turn the Little Tigers, 14-13.

The Blue and White forces will try to bounce back from their first defeat in Mercer County play in two years when they take on Somerville in a non-county tilt this Friday at 3 on the Princeton High athletic field. All five schools in the county—Princeton, Trenton Catholic, Trenton High, Hamilton High and Ewing High—have lost at least once in league competition.

Fortune, which had shined on the Little Tigers in their 21-19 squeaker over Hamilton and tight 14-13 conquest of Trenton High, turned her back on the Blue and White Saturday in Trenton. Catholic's last minute extra-point effort to break a 13-13 deadlock struck the cross bar and bounced the right way while Fred Kessler's attempt for a second conversion was blocked by end Jay Brown.

Statistics, however, reveal that there wasn't too much luck involved in Catholic's triumph. The Wave rolled up 16 first downs to Princeton's four while churning out 192 yards on the ground as compared with the Little Tigers' 50. Neither team exploited its long passing game to any extent and the aerial yardage advantage was negligible. Princeton picking up 15 more yards than its opponent.

Catholic's defense completely throttled the Little Tigers' ground attack in the first half, holding them to a meager three yards gained on rushing plays. At the same time, the Wave's attacking operatives struck swiftly in the opening minutes of the fray with a 39-yard touchdown dash by Jim Jones on its second play from scrimmage.

Princeton came to life in the third stanza with two quick-scoring thrusts that sent the visitors into a 13-7 lead. Capitalizing on two Catholic fumbles, Bob Montgomery tossed a four-yard touchdown aerial to Dick Wood and heaved a 26-yard scoring pass to Marv Trotman.

Catholic launched a final 76-yard march toward pay dirt with 7:10 remaining in the contest in a desperation effort to overtake the Little Tigers. At the 1:50 mark Connie Harris plunged over from two yards out and Dick DeGregory bounced the pignskin off the cross bar for Catholic's victory.

Hun Eyes 500 Mark. The Hun School football team, riding the crest of its first victory of the campaign against Morristown School last Friday, will be shooting for the 500 mark Saturday when the Johnny Huns meet Bayley-Ellard here at 3 p.m.

Bill Holden paced the Red and Black at Morristown by scoring the first touchdown in the second period and adding the vital conversions to Hun's two six-pointers. Holden was on the receiving end of a ten-yard payoff aerial from Jim Lavin and booted the conversion to give Hun a 7-6 half-time margin.

Pete Anderson slanted off tackle for a 32-yard touchdown gallop and Holden added his second extra point to boost the Johnny Huns ahead, 14-6. Morristown came back with a final-period tally but was unable to spoil Hun's first victory in three outings.

P.C.D. Takes Two. Both the six-man football and soccer teams at Princeton County Day School won last week. The football team, coached by Lester Tibbals, whipped Lambertville, 37 to 19, as Roger Holt and Andy Kerr paced the attack. A return contest with Salisbury is scheduled for this Thursday afternoon at the Pennsylvania school. Lawrence Township Junior High was beaten by the Blue and White soccer team. Roger Kirkpatrick's first period goal was the only score in the hard-fought contest. The victory raised P.C.D.'s record to 2 and 3 before this week's game with Valley Road.
